The Senate was called to order yesterday at 12 o'clock M. by Lieutenant-Governor John E. Massey: Prayer by po Rev. Mr. Harrison.

The Senate agreed to the House amendment to the Senate bill for the relief of John A. Roberts and John E.

Roberts, of Charlotte county.

The bills passed by the House on Friday to establish a bureau of labor and dustrial statistics and defining the duties and powers of the same and fixing the salary of the commissioner thereof; to regulate commerce in the State of Virginia; to give aid to soldiers, sailors, and marines of Virginia maimed or disabled in the war between the States and to the widows of Virginia seldiers, &c., who lost their lives in said war in the military service, were all appropriately referred, and the two last-named were ordered to be printed.

NOT CANDIDATES.

Mr. Berry called up the bill providing for the disbursement of money appro-priated to educational and eleemosynary institutions. It was considerably dis cussed. Its main proposition—that all such money shall remain in the Treasury to the credit of the institutions, to be drawn by order of the proper officers met with a vigorous opposition from Mr. Gordon. He stated that he wanted Gordon. He stated that he wanted every safeguard possible thrown around the State Treasury, but if the bill is passed it would bring the money appro-priated to the University of Virginia rom the bank at Charlottesville to Richmond, and thus deprive the town and county of the advantages accruing from

The Woman's Christian Association The citizens of Richmond have been too much accustomed to have their attention called to works of benevolence, and being asked to take part in them either actively or by giving the ans for others to carry them out, for us to hesitate in placing before them a simple statement by which we hope to interest them in one work that has been begun and most quietly and unobtrusive-ly carried on during the past year in this ity. It is the work of the "Woman's Christian Association," whose object it is to improve the condition of working women, chiefly young girls, who have no domestic ties, and need the comfort and protection of a home, where they will be influenced for their spiritual and temporal good, and also to assist those who may need it to obtain employment.

CLEANING UP THE COTTON RECEIPTS FOR THE SEASON.

A Shortage Compared with Last Year-Shipments of Coal-Personals and Briefs.

(Correspondence of the Richmond Discatch.) NORPOLK, February 18, 1888. There are five foreign steamships now in port taking on cotton, or cleaning up the season as it were. All of them will take grain and tobacco also as part cargo. The most of the cotton now stored here is being held by the cottonmen, who can do so for better prices, as an advance is sure to follow very soon, they say. About forty thousand bales are on hand, and the receipts for the last week were nearly five thousand bales, the most of which, however, was through cotton for New England. The receipts for the season at this port foot up so far 416,731 bales, a considerable shortage yet on last year.

Hampton Roads is now comparatively bare of shipping. All the steam lines are running regularly and the fleets of fertilizer schooners detained by the ice are now arriving and filling the railroad wharves and warehouses with their cargoes for the cotton-fields. Keeper M. L. Odell, of Cape Henry

Libby-Prison Reminiscence FORT SPRING, W. VA., Feb. 16, 1888.

To the Editor of the Dispatch : Dear Sir,-So much is being written at present about Libby Prison that I am reminded of the fact that I was once on guard there for three months, during the year 1863. In your paper of the 15th instant some one mentions the fact that the prisoners inside of Libby had more to eat than the Confederates in the field. That is a fact, and they had more to eat than the ones who were doing guard duty outside. A prisoner received one loaf of bread, a ration of beef or bacon, and a cup of soup (and very good soup it was, too, as I know from having scooped in a cupful when the pot was passing), while the guard outside only received three quarters of a loaf of bread and the same ration of beef or bacon. and the same ration of beet of bacon. To my certain knowledge the prisoners were humanely treated. I often thought they were better off than the poor Confederate on the outside. It is the fact of being confined that renders one so discomposition with the multitude of low test, short weight aium or phosphate powders, company, 105 Wall street, N. Y. no 25-dawly

General Neal Dow was the first officer among the prisoners ap-pointed to make distributions, but his way of doing things did not suit the oners or the commandant at the MAIN STREET, COMMENCING Libby, and he was displaced and a better man appointed. General Dow, so the AT 10 O'CLOCK AND EVENING AT 4 O'CLOCK. rumor ran at that time, was getting all the best clothing and good entables for the officers and not making the proper distribution. Was not D. B. Bridgford in a part of this building when the war began? Some think that the Libby was once a tobacco-factory. I do not think it was. There were several factories used as prisons, and the first prisoners brought to Richmond were placed in a factory on Main street about on the south side. The officers and privates were mixed up in that prison the commandant was a Captain Todd, and was said to be a brother-in-law of Abraham Lincoln. One of my schoolmates, to my surprise, was confined there, being a lieutenant in the Federal cavalry. He was released and afterwards joined the Confederate army and was killed at Holly Springs, Miss., being at that time an officer on General Van at 10% o'clock, I will sell, at my auction-house at that time an officer on General Van as assertment of GOOD HOUSEHOLD FURNI Dorn's staff.
